Partha Srinivasan has been a valued contributor to STC India's learning initiatives, and we are pleased to acknowledge his work with us.

As a workshop facilitator at the STC India Annual Summit 2025 (5–6 December 2025, Pune), Partha brought practical depth and clarity to his sessions. He has a good ability to make complex ideas accessible without losing their substance, and our members responded well to his approach.

His contributions to the AI for Technical Communicators programme (27 September – 30 November 2025) were especially valuable. This hybrid course, spanning three classroom days and five online weekends, aimed to equip technical communicators with the mindset, skills, and tools to work effectively with AI. Partha approached the subject with a clear understanding of how communication professionals actually work, including their constraints, their workflows, and their need for practical, trustworthy guidance. Participants found his sessions grounded, relevant, and easy to apply in their work.

Beyond training, Partha has played an important role in STC India's digital infrastructure. He has helped design, maintain, and keep updated the STC India website, administer its learning management system, and the platforms used for our conferences, and this work has supported many of our activities.

We are glad to have Partha as part of STC India's community of practitioners, and we are happy to recommend him as a facilitator, trainer, and practitioner in AI and professional communication, as well as for his work on digital platforms.
